Charter of Recommendations

National Consultation of “Chairpersons and Members of State Commissions for Protection of Child Rights (SCPCRs)” on 27th - 28th May, 2017, Gangtok, Sikkim: Charter of recommendations

As per Commissions for Protection of Child Rights (CPCR) Act, 2005, National Commission for Protection of Child Rights and State Commissions for Protection of Child Rights are mandated to monitor implementation of laws related to rights of the child and review of policies and procedures of the governments and give recommendations for their effective implementation. Since, coordination and collaboration between National and State Commissions for Protection of Child Rights is a significant pre-requisite for effectively ensuring that rights of the child are upheld throughout the country, NCPCR is taking initiatives in creating a platform for all the Commissions to discuss their issues, share concerns and identify common agenda to focus upon. With this objective a two-days consultation was being organized at Chintan Bhavan, Gangtok, Sikkim. This Consultation was participated by the 19 SCPCRs.

Proposal for recommendations are given as under:

Amendment of Plantation and Labour Act, 1951: The Plantation and Labour Act, 1951 is a specific Act for the people engaged in the tea plantation. The provisions of the Act provides that wellbeing of the children of plantation workers is the responsibility of the Tea Estate Owners. However, this Act contradicts the provisions and definitions of the RTE Act. Therefore, it is high time to amend the Act in view of the RTE Act, 2009. Further, there is a need to harmonize all other Child Rights Acts.

Review of the status of benefits being availed by the children of minorities with reference to Article 15(5) through 93rd Amendment Act of Constitution of India and under Article 21 A: The 93rd Amendment Act provides that “State shall make special provision, by law, for the advancement of any socially and educationally backward classes of citizens or for the Scheduled Castes or the Scheduled Tribes in so far as such special provisions relate to their admission to educational institutions including private educational institutions, whether aided or unaided by the State, other than the minority educational institutions referred to in clause (1) of Article 30.” However, there is a need to assess and review the Act to find out how this Act has actually helped the children of minority communities.
Further, these institutions are means for upliftment of minority communities and still there is a need to devise a pathway to ensure that the benefits of such institutions actually reach the children of minority communities.

Minority institutions are out of the ambit of the RTE Act, 2009; however, the children of the minority communities can not be deprived of the quality and meaningful fundamental education which is essential for children to achieve their full potential to enjoy the benefits under Article 21 – A of the Constitution.

Full implementation of the Juvenile Justice (Care & Support of Children) Act, 2015 and POCSO Act, 2012 may be ensured in all the States/UTs.

Redressal of grievances is one of the core functions of the Commissions, therefore, all the Commissions to ensure an effective grievance redressal mechanism.
